IT IS THE PREVSIONANTS OURS FOR

Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works.

The departure of the Hon J W Trutch is a circumstance which would appear to claim something more than a mere passing notice at our hands. It has been said that some men are born great, while others have greatness thurst upon them. But there appears to be a third class, those who attain greatness by a proper and dilligent use of their time and talents. These are commonly called 'self-made men,'they are the best type of man; and it is to this class that the subject of the present article may be regarded as more properly belonging. Arriving here in 1858. Mr Trutch applied himself to the practice of his profession, that of Civil Engineer, and it was not long before he became a Government Contractor We believe his first contract of any considerable magnitude was that of the present road connecting Victoria and Esquimalt The faithfulness, skill and success evinced in this capacity soon won for him a reputation, and he enabled to was undertake and execute some of the most important public works upon the Mainland, amongst which might be mention. ed one of the most difficult sections of the great highway between Yale and Lytton. The beautiful Alexandra bridge which spans the Fraser River fourteen miles above Yale, was built by him, not, however, as a Government work, but a private enterprise, secured by a charter, and now, by effluxion of time, the property of the Colony. It is scarcely surprising that upon a change of Administration in 1864 Mr. Trutch should have been selected to fill the important effice which he has held up to the present time, and it is with this period of his life that we have chiefly to do. It would be unfaithful on our part to say that Mr Trutch has throughout the whole mr Truten has throughout the whole period of his official connection with the colony, been popular with the public; but a sense of justice compells us to say that during the seven years he has had charge of the public important department in the Garage. most important department in the Govern-ment even malice has never ventured to whisper a doubt as to his honor and integrity whisper a doubt as to his honor and integrity as a public officer; and if he failed during a previous administration to secure public approval to as great an extent as could have been wished, more recent events tend to show that he owed that circumstance chiefly to the false position he was made to occupy in a false and most unpopular system. Indeed, it was not notil the last two sessions of the Legislature that Mr Trutch had an opportunity of doing justice either to himself the Legislature that Mr Trutch had an op-portunity of doing justice either to himself or to the colony; and it is not too much to say that during these two sessions, or rather during the last session and the present one, he has not only succeeded in completely dis-sipating prejudices created under a previous sipating prejudices created under a previous administration, but he has earned a reputation and popularity which will cause the circumstance of his departure to be regarded with very general regret. As a departmental officer his ability has never been called in question. As an Executive officer, we have not the means of knowing much about him, but we are led to think that he has exercised no little influence in the secret chamber. It is in his capacity as a member of eroised no little influence in the 'secret cuam-ber.' It is in his capacity as a member of the Legislative Council that Mr Trutch is best and most favorably known to the public; and it is in this capacity that he has made his abilities most let. As a debater he is unquestionably able, ever inspiring the list tener with a belief in his honesty and ear-restness ta do and support the right wholly tener with a belief in his honesty and earnestness to do and support the right, wholly irrespective of men or of party. The important part which it has fallen to his lot to play in the great scheme of Confederation, now so nearly and happily completed, will cause Mr Trutch to be remembered as among the most able master-builders in laying the foundations of Empire in the West, and it is most fitting that to him should be delegated the work of giving the finishing-touch to that great and beautiful edifice. It is already known that the subject of these remarks has declined to accept a public remarks has declined to accept a public banquet in recognition of his services as a public officer. He leaves the colony to morrow. Whether his official connection with British Columbia terminates with his with British Columbia terminates with his present mission to Ottawa and to Kogland it is impossible to east but we only give form to the general wish when we express the hope that such may not be the case. The time is now close at hand when the colony will be ill able to spare such men. It is not impossible that Mr Trutch may return in a position effecting a still wider field for the in a position offering a still wider held for the exercise of his talents, and which will enable him in a still higher degree to contribute towards the prosperity of a colony with the early history of which his name must ever be intimately associated. Should he return, in whatever capacity he will be sure of a hearty welcome. Should he seek in another field a wider scope for the exercise of his talents he will carry with him the best wishes of the

WEDNESDAY, Feb 9th, 1871. Council met at 1:30 p.m. Present—The hon Speaker, hon Attorney-General, hon Collector of Customs, hon Dr. Helmcken, hon Dr Carrall, Mr Alston, Mr Humphreys Mr Nelson, Mr Nathan, Mr Skinner, Mr Corn-wall, and Mr DeCosmos. Minutes of the lest meeting read and con-

MESSAGE

A message from His Excellency the Governor was read enclosing returns of lands

Mr DeCosmos presented a petition from Messrs Jerome Harper and Mr Irving, praying to be granted the previlege of placing Road Steamers on the Carroso road. The petitioners ask the right to run over the tree!

On motion of Mr DeCosmos the considera-tion of Message No 5 was postponed. ROAD RETURNS.

Mr Humphreys moved for returns of all monies expended and collected on the Douglas, Alexand a and Yale Clinton-Cariboo waggon roads, together with the amount of indebteeness and the interest paid thereon

Mr Nathan moved that the Canadian tariff be further considered. The hen mover said he was more convinced now than ever before that the Canadian tariff should be accepted immediately with union. The returns of imports showed a falling off in two years of thirty-three and a third per cent in general merchandise, and a decrease of 50 per cent in such articles as we are asked to protect. If thirty-three and one third per cent were deducted from the fifty per cent it would be seen that protection had done cent were desucted from the Bity per cont it would be seen that protection had done little for the agriculturist. Under the Canadian bariff cattle raisers were protected more than now, and the difference in the datasets. duties on farm products was thus more than The hon mover produced made up. The hon mover produced statistics to show that should be tosers to the tone of $70,000 or $80,000 per annum, and contended that with the Canadian tariff farmers would be as well, if not botter, situated than now. With the Canadian tard would come less cost for living and, consequently, lower rates of wages. Some farmers really come less cost for living and, consequently, lower rates of wages. Some farmers really find their interests suffering from the retention of the present tariff, and it was equally true that the commercial, manufacturing, mining and fishing interests all suffered from a like cause. At Lilloper 6000 barrels of flour lay for want of a marker. One of the chief objects the people had in voting for Confederation was to secure the Canadian wife. The hop movest concluded by saving Confederation was to mover concluded by saying that every interest, save that of agriculture, would suffer it the present tariff were retained. He moved for an address to His Excellency the Governor requesting him to acquaint the Government of Canada that it is the wish of this Council that the Canadian tailf and excise laws be extended to

British Columbia simultaneously with union, or as soon thereafter as practicable.

Mr Corowall seconded.

Hen Dr Helmeken rose to oppose the re Hon Dr Heimeken rose to oppose the re-solution, and hoped to be able to relute some of the arguments advanced by his han col-league. He objected to the motion, and al-though a member for the chief commercial city he could not allow that fact to govern him when the interests of the whole colony were at the ke. For Victoria the Canadian taill would be the best—but it would not be the best for the whole colony. Our own tathe best for the whole colony. Our own ta-riff affords protection to the farmer; the Ca-nadian Tariff protects only cattle railers. If he wished to make a garden or cullyvate a piece of ground he had to pay for it. If the colony wished the land of the colony califorated the country world have to pay for it by protection. The land required the expenditure of an improvement protection. The land required the expendi-lare of an immense amount of labor before i could be converted into cultivated fields -- and the renson why he asked that the duties on the reason why he asked that the duties on wheat, cats, &c. may be retained was that the poor people went on that land and cultivated it should be protected. The duty on grain was the best protection that could be afforded the farmer. If protection (as the hen mover said) had been the means of lowering the price of living in the unper country. oring the price of living in the upper country, protection ought to be retained. Protection had benefitted the upper country—the whole had benefitted the upper country—the whole country, and if protection be removed all the articles would be imported from the foreign side of the Straits, by which means we should encourage and support a rival to our own country, lessen the value of our land and get nothing in return. No market would exist there for our produce. Merchants have would rather deal with foreigners and buy their goods in great quantity than buy from the Island farmers. One complaint had always been that the Island farmers could never sell anything to the importers. The mover had said that he was astorished to find that there had been a very large increase find that there had been a very large increase find that there had been a very large increase in the matter of production in the last two years—but he went on and claimed that he should deduct therefrom 33½ per cent, in consequence of a decreased population. This argument was untain if not unitue. The importation of tea, edger and coffee had falten off coarcely any, and it was a fair test that the population had not decreased materially. Few people knew what the garlier that the population had not decreased materially. Few people knew what the carlier realers in this country had to contend with and they deserved and carned protection. The difference between the two tunffs was not $50,000—it was not $35,000. Everything from Canada would come in free. The importation of spirits from England would be lessered and the hull of spirits and be lessened and he bulk of spirits sold would be Canadian (Dr Carrall—Hear, hear). The Canadian Tariff was made for the Eastern Provinces of the Dominion and the Eastern Provinces of the Dominion and would not answer here. It was not true that the maritime portion of Vancouver Island alone wanted protection. The duty of $1 50 per bil on flour was of as much important the Island. in the interior as to the Islandbecause, strike off the duty and the interior farmers would lose Omineca trade. He held their the high rates of wages had nothing to with the price of living. The cost of not a few years ago was double what it is labout the cost of living was not double, too labout the cost of living was not account, too supply's any other commodity, depends on not be t demand. Confederation should it ought, inveans of injuring any interest; those who till, to protect the interests of Lord Liegar it land. In the telegram of Lord Liegar it fand. In the regions the Canadian Govas much as said that the Cipection to allow a nect would have no colony. Therefore he Trate tariff for this he honor of offering the LHelmcken] had

Whereas, in reply to a religion:
by this Council and transmitted ion passed ernor General of Canada, a telegraphe Govsace was received from Lord Liszar mesthat after the acceptance of the territes Onion by Canada the Parliament of the Dominion may, in its discretion, modify the British Columbian tariff upon the equest of British Columbia; That this Council resolves that His Excellency the Governor will be pleased to communicate to Lord Lisgar the desire of this Council viz; That the Governor General will be pleased to lay before the Parliament of Canada that the before the Parliament of Canada that the tariff of British Columbia may be altered as follows: That the duty upon spirits be reduced to the Canadian standard; that the duty on wheat be reduced to ten cents per bushel that the duty on flour be reduced to seventy-five certs per barrel. That this Council asks this feeling that it will pre-vent a great deal of barm to British Columbia, and thus do much good to the Dominion

That His Excellency the Governor will be pleased to instruct the hon Mr Trutch to explain to the Government of Canada the reasons for the foregoing, and that he may be empowered to take such steps for the purpose as upon consultation with the Government of the Dominion of Canada he may deem necessary.'

The hon gentleman did not see how any reasonable person could object to voting for the amendment. In moving it he sought to serve the interests of the whole country. Mr DeCosmos seconded the amendment.

Hon Dr Helmcken said that the man who cultivated a piece of land was vastly superior to the man who put cattle on land and did nothing else to it. By the Canadian Tariff the cost of meat would be largely increased, and there were several articles that creased, and there were several articles that were charged under that tariff more than under our own. If everything was balanced the consumer would find very little difference. The excise laws of Canada go with the tariff and no man would be able to make a pound of malt unless he paid a cent per pound. The duty on imported malt was nearly the come as the aveier duty, and the greater same as the excise duty, and the greater part of the mait would be imported from a foreign soil. In addition the brewers would foreign soil. In addition the brewers would be charged 5, or 6 cents a gallon on the beer

Hon Dr Carrall rose to support the original resolution and hoped to kill two birds with one stone—to aid in the defeat of the amendment and to effect the passage of the amendment and to effect the passage of the resolution. Not very long ago the same hash as the amendment was served up to this House and was swallowed by the hon members. He was sorry to differ from the hon gentleman, and he was sorry that, having arrived at the very pinnacle of power (a laugh), he (Dr Helmcken) was enabled to way this Council so frequently to his way of thinking. The hon geetleman, as a physician, administered nauseous doses sometimes. This was one of them and he (Dr Carrall) stood there as a corrective (laughter). The amendment was childlike-simple. The only issue before the Council was the acexptance or rejection of the Canadian Tariff.
We could not frame a tariff of our own. Nothing had injured the country so much as the unsettled state of the tariff, and nothing would injure the mercantile or agricultural classes more than the rejection of the Canadian tariff. It we swallowed the amendment we should pay an annual subsidy of $65,000 to the Canadian Government. To do what? To protect the Island farmers! Protection, forsooth! Why, he had dined and break-fasted without potatoes the last two days— he farmers hadn't brought a pound into town, and over and over again we were told there would be no fresh butter until the Cathere would be no fresh butter until the Camfornia steamer arrived. Farming was the best protected — the best off of any interest in the Colony. [Dr H-]mcken—Then why try to ruin it?] You are the one who wants to ruin it. You want to give it a monopoly, make living high, keep people away and leave the farmers without a market. They had a segmentalled for their ket. They had a seamer already for their protection running along the East Coast for the support of which the whole colony was taxed. The Island was not agricultural and therefore had little or nothing to be pro

Hon Dr Helmeken here rose to correct a remark of the hon Dr Carrall.

Hon Dr Carrall—You were told in Canada that the choice was between the Canadian and the British Columbian tariff and it is incompetent for the Council to pass any such resolution as the hon gentleman proposes. It had been said that we could not deal with this question in this Parliament. Then why was the amendment offered? The very farmers whom the bon member would protect and make rich at the expense of every one el-e in the colony—these very farmers pay $1 50 duty on every barrel of flour they eat! The Columbian tariff would hang like a bete nour over this colony The merchants would always be afraid to launch out-never know on what to rely, because they would never be sure what changes or modifications would be introduced.

Dr Helmeken—I was told in Canada that the Canadian Parliament could moke the al-terations in the tariff as easily after as be-

Hou Attorney General reviewed the pre-vious action of the Council in resolving to send a telegram to Canada respecting certain modifications. The reply was that the Do-minion Government could not of themselves allow this Council to make the modifications, because the terms we e in the character of a Treaty, but that as soon as they were accepted by the Canadian Government the Parliament could be asked to entertain and probably would allow the modifications. The reply was as favorable as sould be expected, and with all due deference to the House be submitted that it would be childish to now stultify themselves by adopting the original resolution. His own opicion was that the clause in the terms respecting the selection of a tariff was meant to apply after union. The hon gentleman read the clauses upon which he besed that opinion and argued forcibly in its support. In the very address sent bome, he said, the Council had stated that the existing Customs tariff would remain in force until altered by an Act of this Legislature. If the resolution was passed the uncertainty in the commercial mind would be greater than ever; but were the net, and that we should go into Canada with our Customs tariff unaltered? We should have our representatives in Parliament to press our claims agd wants, and we have the assurance of Lord Lisgar that they would be favorably entertained. The hon gentleman proposed a verbal alteration of Dr Helm-defence was that the plaintiff was one of the Company, and was wo's ing on shares. The case was proceeded with to a considerable extent and postponed for one day.

Round Over.—W H Lamont, who has been a custody for some days on a charge of being a suspicious character, was yesterday required cken's amendment, which was accepted.
Mr Humphreys supported the amendment.
Mr Bunster felt like supporting the amendment. The mover of the original resolution advocated cheap lator when we not the Ca-nadian tariff, but the cheaper our labor the less inducement there would be for people to come here. The higher the wages the mor neonle we would get. In the old country labor is cheap and people leave it. He did not think the Wharf street men were entitled to much consideration. The Government street men were outstripping them and they idn't want the Canadian tariff.

Mr. Nathan — I said nothing about the Mr. street men.

General "neter — I agree with the Attorney dependence of the mention of filled to overflowing and much gratification was expressed. Some 50 male and female voices comprised the choir, which was successfully directed by Mr J J Austin. The selections were from Hayden's Creation, Mendelsohn's Elijah, Handel's Messiah, Samson and Judas Maccabeus, Costa's Eli, and other celebrated pives of sacred music. The harmonium was presided over by Mrs McDonild, who performed a solo and rendered the accompaniments in a manner worthy of all praise. The choruses were all well rendered, especially 'The Heavers are Telling.' Solos were sung by Mrs John K Adams (alto) Mrs Powell and Miss Sarah Redfern (treble); Mrs Atwood, Miss Denny, Miss General externed agree with the Attorney ourselves wit we hadn't ought to sultify ourselves whice is really running against private enterprise sottend of protecting any one. The bon gentlemen said that Canadian whasky world take the place of ale. Mr before I circ. This is a Bill to repeal the Ordinance imposing a duty of 50 cents a gallon on spirits.

Mr Nathan moved the second reading with a we appropriate remarks:
The hon Attorney General said he would cot oppose the Bill, but he was afraid that, newever much the Government might desire to abolish the tax, they had not the power, as it entered into these revenues which formed the basis of the terms of union. Hon Dr Helmcken did not agree with the Attorney General. This tax was not known to exist at the time the terms were arranged, and could form no parl of them.

Mr DeCosmos concurred in the views expressed by the Attorney General.

Hoa Collector of Customs thought the opinion of the Attorney General settled the whole question inasmuch as the Governor would be question maximuch as the Governor would be guided by it.

Mr Nelson said the real question was to whether the Council possessed the power to deal with the matter.

After some further remarks in reply from Mr Nathan, the Bill was read a second time.

Mr Nathan, the Bill was read a second time.

THOMSON'S ROAD STRAMERS.

Hon Dr Carrall moved the second reading of the Bill granting Beedy & Barnard certain privileges in respect to the introduction of Thomson's Patent Road Steamers, The hon gentleman gave the history and explained the advantages of these steamers, pointing out the benefits that would accrue to the country at large from their introduction, and intimaat large from their introduction, and intima-ting that the opposition to the Bill was trace-able to individuals who had a personal object and to individuals who had a personal object to serve in keeping out these steamors. He had received a belegram from Clinton, stating that the people of Lilloost District had petitioned in favor of the Bill.

[Mr Humphreys here interrupted, asserting

[Mr Humphreys here interrupted, asserting that he was in a position to state that not one of the people of the Lilloose District beyond those in the employ of one of the parties seeking the Bill had signed such a petition.]

Hon Dr Carrall resumed, and said the petition would be down in due course and would speak for tiself. He continued to explain the provisions of the Bill, and, in a very able speech, moved its second reading.

Hon Attorney General explained the position in which the Government stood towards the measure. It had been fully considered in Executive, and it had been decided that, with certain alterations ane modifications, the Governmen would be prepared to sanction the Bill, if passed by the Council. He explained the error would be prepared to sanction the Bill, if passed by the Council. He explained the changes and modifications, the chief of which were as follows: The Bill only to give the exclusive right for one year; the parties to guarantee the Government to repair the roads and to strengthen the bridges, if found necessary, at their own expense; the maximum rate of treight between Yale and Barkerville to be 8 cents, instead of 10.

cents, instead of 10.

Mr Humphreys made one of his characteris. Mr Humphreys made one of his custacteris, tic harangues against the Bill, denouncing it as an iniquitous measure and a disgrace to the House. In the course of his remarks he used words respecting one of the gentleman interested in the measure which hon Dr Carrall asked to have taken down.

The liberal republican committee has demanded that the government of the fourth of Sept'r should be arraigned by the matinians asked to have taken down.

Mr DeCosmos rose (excitedly) to a question of order, and denied the right of the House to have the words taken down. Hon Speaker informed the member for Vic-oria District that the Clerk had taken down he words complained of.

Mr DeCosmos said the Clerk had no right trtake them down. It was unparliamentary triake them down. It was unparliamentary and, in his opinion, wrong.

Hon Speaker said that might be the opinion of the member for Victoria District; but it was immaterial. He (the Speaker) had on the request of a member, directed the Clerk to take the words down, and it had been done.

Mr Humphreys resumed. He said something about dragging the carrion out and hanging it up before the the public gaze, and gibbeting the mover of the infamous measure. These steamers, if introduced, would ruin those at present engaged in the carrying trade, those living along the roadside and the new mail contractors—but he would not be opposed to their introduction if a monopoly were not given! not given!

Mr DeCosmos followed in opposition to the Bill. He referred to a petition from two genstlemen of large means offering to introduce steamers without any legislative encouragement. The manufacturers of these steamers would supply them on three years' credit and take them back if not successful, so that all the capital precessary to introduce them was the capital necessary to introduce them was the price of freignt from Singland. He was not opposed to their introduction—only to granting a monopoly.

The debate was adjourned till Monday, and the Council adjourned till Friday at 1 p.m.
